Our Presenters

Judith Whiton and Laurie Duker, Court Watch Montgomery

Are you interested in developing a court watch project in your county?

Court Watch programs are initiated by concerned citizens and community groups to collect information about how victims of domestic violence are treated in court. These groups use their data and observations to make recommendations to improve victim safety and abuser accountability. Court Watch Montgomery is an all-volunteer, non-profit organization that monitors protective order hearings and reports the successes and challenges that they observe. This webinar will provide information on how Court Watch programs can be developed and implemented in other counties.

This online workshop will address:

- How to get started: important first steps
- Finding and training volunteers
- Keeping the project up and running
- Analyzing your data
- Reporting to the court, local press, and the community

You'll have an opportunity to submit questions when you register.
